This was then followed by the workshop by Mr Sujit Kumar Martha , Associate Professor ,M.Pharm, Jeypore College of Pharmacy, Jeypore ,Odisha .The various aspects of Coronaviruses are large group of viruses that cause illness in humans and animals was discussed. Rarely, animal coronaviruses can evolve and infect people and then spread between people such as has been seen with MERS and SARS. The outbreak of Novel coronavirus disease (COVID-19) was initially noticed in a seafood market in Wuhan city in Hubei Province of China in mid December, 2019, has now spread to 215 countries/territories/areas worldwide.

Various aspects of Covid 19 were discussed. Patients with suspected or confirmed mild COVID-19 are isolated to break/suppress the chain of transmission. Patients with mild disease may present to primary care/outpatient department, or detected during community outreach activities, such as home visits or by telemedicine. Mild cases can be managed at home (subject to fulfilment of norms as stipulated in home isolation guidelines). Patients not fulfilling such criteria or those with co-morbid conditions need to be managed at Covid Care Centre (CCC, set up in urban or rural areas), Primary Health Centres, Community Health Centre (CHC), sub-district and district hospitals (in rural areas). For management of Covid 19 various management protocols were discussed like

- Those under home isolation or in CCC or similarly identified rural facilities shall follow physical distancing, indoor mask use and strict hand hygiene.
- Symptomatic management for fever and cough. Take fluids regularly to maintain hydration
- Patients may perform warm water gargles or take steam inhalation multiple times a day.
- Monitor temperature and oxygen saturation 2 to 4 times per day (by applying a SpO2 probe to fingers).
- Stay in contact with treating physician and report promptly in case of any deterioration in clinical condition.

pharmaceutical law frame, guidelines covering Quality, Safety and Efficacy as well as Health Authorities' attitudes and requirements etc. have a great influence on the drug development process and the success of it. Regulatory affairs professionals deal with these aspects. Regulatory affairs (RA) professionals play critical roles in a pharmaceutical industry because it is concern about the healthcare product lifecycle, it provide strategic, tactical and operational direction and support for working within regulations to expedite the development and delivery of safe and effective healthcare products to individuals around the world. The role of regulatory affairs to develop and execute a regulatory strategy to ensure that the collective efforts of the drug development team results in a product that is approvable by global regulators but is also differentiated from the competition in some way and also is to ensure that the company's activities, from non-clinical research through to advertising and promotion, was discussed.

The online work shop was concluded by question answer session where the participants cleared their queries on the topic information .In total 34 participants attended the workshop and actively participated.

clinical testing for safety-monitoring or marketing purposes. The revenue share is larger than that for other knowledge-based industries, such as semiconductors, technology hardware, and software. Several possible explanations for the increase in the industry's R&D intensity was discussed. It could reflect the increased role of small drug companies, which have little revenue and, therefore, high ratios of R&D spending to net revenues.

The work shop was concluded by question answer session where the participants cleared their queries on the topic information .In total 34 participants attended the workshop and actively participated.
